

Malaria hoops

Your Colony can learn about malaria and how it can be easily prevented.

This game is extremely simple to run!

Explain to your Colony that Malaria kills hundreds of thousands of people each year but can easily be avoided by sleeping under mosquito nets

- Place a certain number of large hoops (which are now mosquito nets that protect those stood inside them) on the floor
- Tell the Beavers to run around your meeting place until you shout 'MOSQUITO'.
- When this happens, Beavers must jump into a hoop as soon as possible. More than one Beaver can be protected by a hoop
- After each turn, remove a hoop. Beavers who dont make it to a hoop in time are out of the game
- The winners are the Beavers in the last hoop

Additional Information:

This activity is part of the Go Global resource created by Shelterbox, in partnership with The Scout Association; to help Leaders deliver global and international programme activities.